WE GET YOU

People who need family lawyers are different from people who need other types of lawyers. If you are going through a separation or divorce, or if you need help with child custody or access, child support or spousal support, or a children's aid society issue, your case is about your life. Or, if you are about to get married or start living with someone, you may have some concerns about your future.

We can help you!

HOW ARE WE DIFFERENT?

Our family lawyers are adept at advocating for clients while keeping them out of court using family mediation and arbitration as appropriate. We also offer "Collaborative Practice", which helps spouses who are in difficult situations, but are committed to resolving matters without "damaging the kids." We devote extra energy to helping children in difficult circumstances. We have successfully advocated to protect children in several ground-breaking court decisions and court cases.
